

Guidelines for Articles

(Hikma)

Length

The article must be between 7,000 and 9,000 words in length. Appendices may be up to 5 pages long; they are not counted within the permitted word range.

Title

The title must be written in the language of the article. If the article is in English, the English version of the title will appear first, and it will be mandatory to include its translation into Spanish immediately below. For formatting, apply the Word style: "Título 1."

Abstract and keywords

The abstract should be between 200 and 300 words.

After the word Abstract (Arial 10 pt, bold), include a colon (Abstract:). The text should be written immediately after the colon, with the first word capitalized.

As for the content, the abstract must outline the objectives of the work, the hypothesis to be debated, the methodology used, etc. (IMRaD format).

Palabras clave

Provide between 3 and 5 keywords, each with an initial capital letter, separated by commas, and with NO final period.

It is recommended to avoid using words already included in the title of the work.

Apply the style format: "Resumen_Abstract."

Headings and Organization

Headings or subheadings in which the work may be divided should not have a final period and should not include footnotes.

Quotes

When paraphrasing an author's idea, reference it as follows: the author's surname(s) and the year of the consulted reference. Example:

Furthermore, according to Díaz et al. (2017), it is not necessary to...

Textual quotations shorter than three lines or 40 words should be enclosed in double quotation marks (""). There should be no space between the quotation mark and the beginning or end of the quoted text. Such quotes must always include the page number of the reference. Example:

Moreover, according to Díaz et al. (2017, p.21), “Quotations of three lines or fewer will appear in the body of the text in double quotation marks.”

If no page number exists, the specific paragraph from which the information was obtained must be mentioned: (Zofio, 2010, par. 3).

The closing period for the paragraph goes after the closing quotation mark ("). If it is necessary to insert a footnote, the footnote indicator should be a superscript number after the closing quotation mark ("¹).

Block Quotations

Quotations longer than three lines or 40 words should be formatted using the style format: “Citas”:

Citations reproduce the material exactly, without changes or additions. The author, year, and page number must be indicated. If the cited source has no pagination, then the paragraph number is used. If the citation has fewer than 40 words, it should appear within the body of the text, in quotation marks, and the reference data should be provided in parentheses at the end. (Machado, 2010, p. 74)

The quotation text ends with a period, followed immediately by the reference information (Author, date, page). No final period follows after the reference:

...at the end. (Machado, 2010, p. 74)

In the case of multiple authors, use the following formats:

- One author: (Trueba, 2018) – If they have a second surname, include it!
- Two authors: (León y Montero, 2015)
- Three or more authors: Only cite the first.

Narrative citation (in-text):

- First author et al.: Seco et al. (2016)
- Parenthetical citation: (first author et al.): (Seco et al., 2020)

For articles in French, maintain the nonbreaking space between guillemets and the quoted text.

For articles in English, use curly double quotes (“ ”, not " "). Curly single quotes (‘ ’) may be used within quotes. Example:

The Shadow Employment Secretary declared “Describing the unemployment figures as ‘disappointing’ is an insult to the British people.”

Summary:

- Fewer than 40 words: incorporate the quoted information into the text, in quotation marks.
- More than 40 words: place the quoted text in a separate paragraph and use the “Citas” style.
- Direct quotation from one page: (Blanco et al., 2019, p. 252)
- Direct quotation spanning more than one page: (Blanco et al., 2019, pp. 252–253)

Footnotes

The comment in the footnote must end with a period.

Footnotes should only be used for clarifications to the text or to provide complementary information, but NOT to cite the source or bibliographic reference used in the main text, nor for links and/or URLs.

Footnotes should use Arial 8 pt, justified text, single spacing, with spacing before and after set to 0 pt.

Tables, Graphs, and Images

Tables must be submitted in an editable format and not as images.

The caption for graphs, tables, etc., must be centred, with no space between the image and the caption, in bold, using the style: “Imagen Título.” The source is written in regular typeface, with 6 pt spacing after.

Bibliographic References

Pay special attention to the names of publishers and institutions, which should not be translated.

Do not use italics to highlight any element of the bibliographic references.

All links must be in black text without underlining.
